Skeptics

The Skeptics at the City of Consciousness Tales in the future of Sci-Fi

Gong and Volt are two best buddies living in the strangest parallel Earth you can think of. In 2106, the world is the garden of the Gods. The High Castes, cosmic Gods with immense power, have already been on the planet for more than seven decades. Their presence has changed everything; nations were destroyed while others came into power. Exo-humanism has become the norm as millions of humans were transformed by the power of the Gods. A New World Order demanded all these new Exo-humans to fight each other in the name of the Gods they represent. Survival and evolution are now driving forces and as powerful as money and information.

Intestine, the City of Consciousness, is the battleground for all these new Exo-shumans. It is also the stage where the High Castes play their games of power and divinity. A city of ten million people, Intestine is a megalopolis where all humans and Exo-humans try to adapt and survive in this brave new world.

High technology, bizarre energy manipulations, insect-men, cyber-hindus, divine playboys and their harems, urban Gods and street cults, are part of the daily life of Intestine, all intermingle in a network of corruption, money and power.

In the middle of this power play lies the Skeptics, a mercenary group that specializes in doing the dirty work for all that can pay their price. The Skeptics comprise of Cracker the leader, a human who compensates for his lack of any Exo-humanism with incredible wits and complete lack of moral restraints. Volt is the main hit man of the Skeptics, hot tempered an Exo-human blessed with a brain that generates huge amounts of electricity, which are then discharged by special cyber gloves. Gong is the muscle power of the Skeptics, a sweet huge Insect-man freakishly strong. Also part of the Skeptics is a former Urban God, Reaper whose fanaticism with faith transformed him into a psychotic image of one of the four horsemen Plague. He is an Exo-human that is disease incarnated.

The Skeptics serve the ones that pay their fees, and due to their fame and success, they also have a great number of rivals in the City of the Gods. Their stories are full of action, betrayal and death.

The Skeptics stories are a mix of the futuristic noir of Blade Runner, the bleakness of Frank Miller's Sin City with a touch of Exo-human prejudice. Come and experience what Intestine City is and maybe you will be prepared for the future.
